

BROWN HANDS, BLACK SCHOOLS HBCUs

FILM

Join Aria and Walter on an adventure to their cousin's HBCU for Homecoming, where they learn about the rich history of HBCUs and the importance of literacy.

- Writer| Director | Producer: Latoya Turner
- Co- Producer| CO- Writer: Angela K. Davis
- Animator: Yanise Cabrera
- Videographer: Olaide Daboiku
- Music by: The Invincible Marching Marauders Band
- Starring Walter L. Turner, Rylee Davis, Skylar Adams

SYNOPSIS

Brown Hands, Black Schools HBCUs is an engaging, educational and fun animated short film with live-action scenes highlighting the rich history of Historically Black Colleges and Universities and the importance of literacy. The film takes us on an adventure with Aria and Walter as they visit their cousin's HBCU for homecoming. We get to see them walk the yard, watch the football game, and enjoy the band. We learn that HBCUs produce 80 percent of the nation's Black judges, as well as half of the country's Black doctors and lawyers!

Wait! There's more!

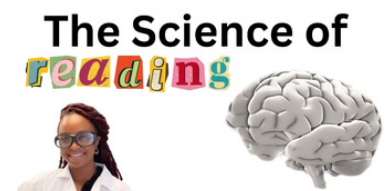

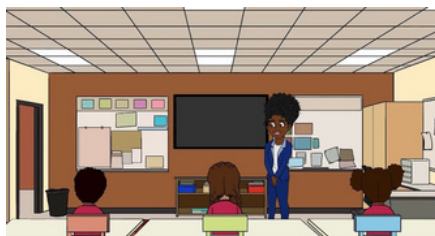

But..... You'll have to watch the film. Be prepared to smile nonstop, feel inspired, and explore HBCUs all while developing a love for literacy.

LITERACY

Have you heard of the Science of Reading? In this film, you'll learn about the Science of Reading while also learning some literacy strategies. Our cast will keep you engaged as they explore books and the five pillars of literacy.

According to the National Assessment of Educational Progress 37% of 4th graders in the United States read "below basic." We can change that! Let's start the discussion and get the youth involved. Will you help us?

This film is based on the popular children's book Brown Hands, Black Schools: HBCUs.

2D Animated Short

Audience: Kids, Parents, Educators Students & HBCU supporters

Runtime: 16 minutes

Benefits: HBCU Awareness, Parental Engagement, Literacy Strategies, Self-Esteem Building

FOLLOW US

@brownhandsliteracy

Latoya Turner

313-399-1554

brownhandsliteracy.org

brownhandsliteracy@gmail.com